

Gray Candles

Planet: Moon

Day: Monday

Chakra: Third Eye

Number: 5

Direction: North

Element: Earth

Zodiac: Cancer

Crystals: Labradorite, Selenite, Gray Agate, Gray Jasper

Gray is considered a neutral color, as it is a blend of black and white. It symbolizes the middle ground between extremes.

Gray candles represent a sense of equilibrium and harmony, bringing together opposing forces and finding a middle path.

This candle is often connected to the energy of the Goddess through its association with the Moon, representing the divine feminine, intuition, emotions, and the cyclical nature of life.

They relate to healing, nurturing, and emotional well-being.

How to Use Gray Candles

- ★ Light a gray candle to work with neutral energies that encourage introspection and deepen the connection with the self.
- ★ They are useful for students facing exams or those seeking career advancements, providing mental focus and strength.
- ★ Gray candles draw energies that promote reconciliation, personal growth, and adaptability to change. These candles work with energies of balance, stability, and self-reflection

The best days for burning gray candles are Mondays if seeking lunar energy, or Wednesdays for communication and adaptability.
