

The Morrigan

Origin: Irish mythology

Signs and symbols:

The Crow or Raven, Number 3,
Triskele, Triquetra, Triple Moon

Epithets:

The Warrior Queen, The Celtic
Goddess of Death, Morrígu,
Phantom Queen

Offerings:

Red wine, red meat, red foods in general, Traditional Irish foods, Mead, Crow feathers, Stormwater, Milk

The Morrigan Invocation

“Great Queen, the Morrigan
Hear me, I am your Priest and your Warrior,
Protect me from harm, be it by intent or by ignorance,
In the face of life’s trials and joys,
May I be ever steady: calm in mind, body, and emotion,
May I be centered, present, embodied,
My mind like water; clinging to no thing and untroubled,
May I act decisively, truth and wisdom as my guideposts,
May my actions and words move from a place of honor,
wisdom, compassion, and love,
May I know when to cut, and when to be cut
Clothe me in guile and cunning;
That I may move with suppleness and resiliency between the worlds.”