Drawing Down The Moon

Drawing down the Moon is a ritual practiced by many contemporary Wiccan traditions. During this ritual, we ask the Triple Goddess to come down and speak through us. This ritual is usually done in a coven setting but can be accomplished alone, too.

You will need...

* altar or table
* 1 white candle
* athame
* lighter or matches

Cast a circle in your preferred method. Then, take three deep breaths as you light the white candle and repeat the following.

By the flowers of the field, O Lady of delight
By the crops thy blessing yield,
O Maiden clear and bright.

We evoke thy presence in kernels and sheaves
We see thy face in the moonlit leaves
Come now to us, extend thy grace,
Come into our circle within this holy space.

Daughter of the Earth, drinking sunlight; Queen of plants, sister of night,
By leaf and twig, by root and bough; By water and earth, come to us now!
Bring us your grain, the staff of our lives. Bring us your fruit wherever it thrives.
Mistress of herbs, unlock your power, and lead us into your leafy bower.

In love and joy we call your name, with comforting hope, you ease our pain.
We see thee in the swelling bud, we feel thy stirring in our blood.
O Lady clear, we feel thee near; In spring a maiden with flowers crowned,
In summer and harvest, the Mother renewed.
In fall and winter, the Hag holds sway, Yet, the Maiden remains but months away.
Great Triple Goddess, the seasons flow and ebb to thy will,
as you come and go.

I call upon thee!
